NEW FIGHT LOOMS IN EUROPE

Government to Abolish Subsidies In Ruhr and Rhineland Districts

LOSS OF WEALTHY TERRITORY SEEN

Allies Still Uncertain As to Action Regarding Ex-Crown Prince

(By United Press Leased Wire)
BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Members of the Pan-German party today were pressing the Stresemann government to break with France even at the risk of war, it was learned from well informed sources.

Stresemann's plans to quit supporting the Ruhr population forthwith and place responsibility for its care on France, as announced yesterday, were considered attributable directly to influence of Pan-German leaders.

Germany would cease negotiations and let France do her worst, according to the Pan-German plan.

Though this step might mean loss of the Ruhr and the Rhineland, the German government would never admit their separation from the reich and all Germany would consider their loss only temporary, it was said today.

To Halt Subsidies
The last of the subsidies to the population of the districts will cease by November 25 if the plan adopted yesterday in a conference between Chancellor Stresemann and representatives of the occupied regions is carried out.

The new minister of the interior, Dr. Janner, told his subordinates confidentially that his course would mean temporary loss of the districts, the United Press was informed.

"But a united Germany will come again in the future," he was reported to have added.

The return of the crown prince to his castle in Oels was considered by Germans a closed incident today.

The government's flat denial of the ex-kaiser's reported intention to return caused most people to forget the rumors.

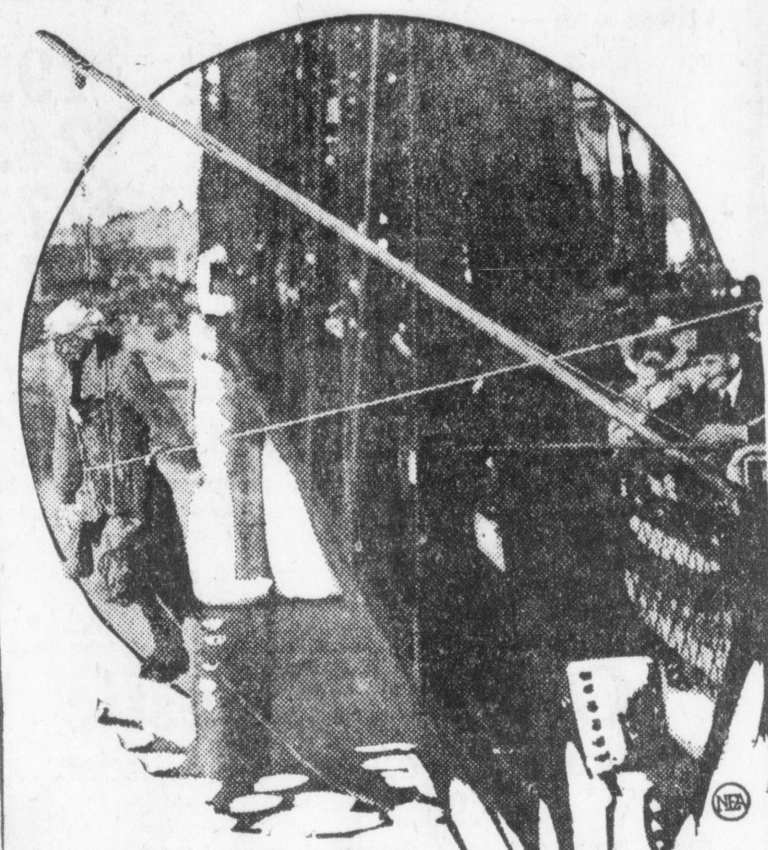

Will Continue Fight
General Erich Ludendorff, one of the leaders of the Hitlerite coup, vowed over the grave of his late valet in Munich yesterday to go on with the fight, dispatches reported.

Some 300 or 400 of Adolf Hitler's followers attended the funerals of Neubauer and others who were killed in the rising. Many wore old grey uniforms. They vowed vengeance on Dictator Van Kahr for suppressing their coup.

HOLLAND PRINCE IN PARLEY WITH STRESEMANN
BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Prince Henry of Holland, consulted Chancellor Stresemann here today.

The meeting was considered highly significant in view of the recent arrival of the crown prince and rumors that the ex-kaiser is planning to return to Germany.

VOTE ON JOINING SOUTH TERRITORY TO CITY IS ASKED

Petitions were placed in circulation today of annexation to Santa Ana of territory south of the city limits to Delhi road and lying between the Huntington Beach tracks of the Pacific Electric on the east and Flower street on the west, it was announced by J. H. Timmons, secretary of the South Main Street Improvement association, following a meeting of the organization last night.

Reports by A. F. Isaacson revealed that members of the city council would look with favor upon annexation. The petition in circulation asks the council to call an election in the proposed territory. According to Timmons, all property owners who have been approached on the subject have readily signed. He pointed out that only registered voters may sign the petition.

It also was disclosed at the meeting that A. C. Black and A. B. Rousseau have procured the signatures of virtually every property owner on South Main street to a petition requesting the installation of ornamental lights on the street from Second street south to the city limits.

A petition also is in circulation requesting the board of supervisors to appropriate funds for paving full width of the unpaved portion of the street as far south as Delhi road.

The association endorsed the efforts of the organizations to develop the annexation of a shoe-leather strip to the harbor and pledged its co-operation in the effort.

According to Timmons, the next meeting of the association, two weeks from last night, will be devoted to discussion of annexation of a shoe-leather strip, with members of the city council and representatives of the harbor project invited to be present.

HARBOR BODY TO BE SENT TO CAPITAL

Supervisors Allow $1200 And Names Riverside Man On Port Delegation

Steps toward laying the case of Orange county's harbor possibilities before the federal government had been taken today by the board of supervisors here, in approving an appropriation of $1200 for expense of such a mission.

The supervisors, in deciding upon the appropriation late yesterday, agreed upon the selection of Francis Cuttle of Riverside to head the delegation from this county to Washington, where the delegates will plead the case of Newport harbor before the scheduled United States naval board hearing upon harbor surveys.

Unity Is Cited
The unusual circumstance of selecting a Riverside county man to represent Orange county at the hearing was regarded as indicative of the unity of Southern California counties in recognition of Newport harbor's value to the entire Southland. Cuttle, a man credited with being thoroughly conversant with the needs of harbor development, is said to be most enthusiastic in his support of the plan to interest the federal government here.

The supervisors, it was decided, would appoint another representative to accompany Cuttle, while a third member of the delegation will be added by the city of Newport Beach, which is financing the trip for its representative.

Survey Is Wanted
The plan, it was pointed out, is to urge the naval board to authorize a survey of the harbor here. Such a survey would be counted upon to show results meriting federal participation in development.

The naval board hearing was originally scheduled for an earlier date, it was said, but through the influence of Congressman Phil Swing, was delayed for the appearance of the Orange county emissaries.

PIPELINE VOTERS MAY FACE CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS
Possibility that not only will 116 residents of Newport Beach, most of them living at the Balboa, end, face challenge if they attempt to vote at the special election November 20, but also if they do vote will throw themselves open for criminal proceedings as violators of the state election laws, was seen today in a statement from pipeline proponents of that city who say they have been investigating the state statutes.

The election is to decide whether the permit granted the Thomas W. Simmons company for the use of the city pier in loading tankers and the laying of an oil pipeline, shall be allowed to go into effect, and to determine whether the city trustees shall be allowed to pass any ordinance dealing with the oil pipeline and loading proposition without referring it to the people.

In an opinion rendered to the city trustees of Newport Beach, Attorney Clyde Bishop held that the 116 residents had not lived in the Newport Beach long enough to conform with the statute covering the qualification of electors. The majority of the number, he said, lived in Newport Beach only a few months of the summer.

Oil Companies Gain Under New 'Gas' Tax

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—California makes a present of approximately $120,000 a year to the oil companies in interest money on collections of the two-cent a gallon tax on gasoline, it is estimated by Ray L. Riley, state controller.

The law does it, Riley declared, in that it demands only quarterly payments from the gasoline companies.

On the other hand, he points out, if payment were demanded from the companies to keep pace with their collections, the tax would become a direct tax, instead of a license tax, and public service corporations would be automatically exempted from the tax.

Bank Messengers Shot Down on Street in Brooklyn; Slayings Got $43,600.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—William S. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, bank messengers, were shot and killed in Brooklyn today when a mob of hoodlums, carrying $43,600 the men were carrying.

The money belonged to the West End Bank, Brooklyn, and was being taken to the Irving National Bank.

WALTON SCORES OVER FOES IN OKLA. FIGHT

(By United Press Leased Wire)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 14.—By a vote of 21 to 18 the Oklahoma senate today decided that Gov. J. C. Walton shall be tried on charges involving improper proclamation of martial law.

A motion to suspend action on these charges was defeated. The vote was a victory for the governor.

It means he will have an opportunity to present his defense on these charges involving the testimony of 200 witnesses who have been summoned from all parts of the state to testify regarding alleged outrages on the part of the Ku Klux Klan.

Walton was accused today by the house board of managers of receiving through a friend a bribe of $6,000 in connection with appropriation for the university preparatory school at Tonkawa.

It was charged by W. E. Disney in an opening statement before the senate court of impeachment that the governor was persuaded to approve the appropriations for the school and in return for which A. D. Snodgrass, a friend and confidant of Walton, received from Tonkawa citizens $6,000.

Testimony of Aldrich Blake, the first witness examined on the charge, created a strong defense for the governor. Blake said he had no knowledge of the governor accepting the money.

Names of fifty-five members of the Oklahoma house of representatives, who he charges are members of the Ku Klux Klan, were made public today in a signed statement by Governor Walton.

The governor gave out the list in issuing a flat denial to testimony of Dr. W. T. Lilly of Muskogee that Walton himself was initiated into the Klan paid dues and took the oath February 13.

Honor 'Unknown' In Destroyer Disaster

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—San Diego's "Unknown Sailor" victim of the Point Honda naval disaster, was tenderly laid to rest today with full military honors, at the Bennington Memorial cemetery on Point Loma.

The body, one of the 15 recovered, has never been identified. Mrs. C. L. Reddock, who lost her husband in the disaster and whose body has never been recovered, attended the services, believing that the "unknown" might be her husband.

SECRET BAND FACTOR IN CAMPAIGN

Texas Senator-Elect Facing Contest Because of Alleged Membership

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—While politicians are appraising the possibilities of national political participation by the Ku Klux Klan as the result of its victories in last week's elections, members of congress can find no way to avoid contact with the Klan issue which many of them fear will be the year's worst bugaboo. The K.K.K. probably will get before congress in two ways:

There are:
1. In the Mayfield case, involving the right of Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Texas to his seat, if, as has been alleged, he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan or subscribes to its oath.

2. Through the activities of the National Vigilance association, which has avowed its intention of putting through laws against masking, secrecy of memberships and for federal prosecution of mob violence.

Each Fight For Seat
Senator Spencer of Missouri will be chairman of the senate privileges and elections committee, which will handle the Mayfield contest if the case is pressed. Up to the present, no formal presentation of charges affecting Mayfield's right to his seat has occurred but anti-Klan factions in Texas assert the fight will be made. An elaborate brief setting forth the charges has been prepared by former Senator Bailey of Texas and his partner, Luther Nickells of Dallas.

Klansmen in a southern senator who took a leading part in the Newberry fight will champion Mayfield. In this case efforts will be made to subordinate the Klan issue and to decide Mayfield's right to his seat on purely legal grounds, relating to use of money in the campaign and the carrying out of certain election laws. But the Klan question will be constantly in the background.

Activities of the newly formed National Vigilance committee are exciting some comment in Washington. The organization, which has headquarters here, sets forth that it is composed of men prominent in educational, business and professional life. It urges nationwide support for laws to prevent masking; to require all organizations to make public names of all their members and for drastic federal laws to punish persons taking part in mob violence.

Thus the Klan question is to be agitated before congress from both sides. In view of Klan successes in the recent election, congressmen are disturbed at the prospect of having to face this issue, which involves so much of racial and religious prejudice along with purely political issues.

County Ordinance Dealing Death Blow to Boxing Being Drafted

Under instructions from the board of supervisors, District Attorney A. P. Nelson today was preparing the draft of a county ordinance aimed to prohibit all public boxing exhibitions, as well as an amendment to the present county dance hall ordinance which would require a license and a license tax for the operation of all dance halls outside of incorporated cities.

The new ordinances are expected to be presented before the supervisors for adoption at their meeting next Tuesday, in line with requests contained in petitions filed with the board last week by forces aligned against boxing and dancing. The amended dance hall ordinance would impose a license tax of $200 annually upon all public dance halls, it was said.

Law Loses In War to Halt Dice Shooting

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—With more than 400 motion picture "extras" participating, a violent riot was staged here today when Constable Franklin of Sherman, a Hollywood suburb, attempted to break up a series of crap games along the boulevard.

Awaiting the trucks which were to take them to early morning "location," the "extras" were passing away the time, grouped in small crowds, and slinging the ivories.

Attempting to arrest two of the participants, the constable was set upon by the infuriated sportsmen, stoned and the actors released.

Franklin telephoned the sheriff's office for reinforcements, but was advised to either make peace with the picture folk or stay in his office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Senator Shortridge, California, announced today he would invite Western senators to a conference to be held before congress meets, to agree on legislation for complete exclusion from the United States of all aliens ineligible to citizenship. This would keep out all Japanese and Chinese.

Shortridge also favors changing the basic date for fixing immigration quotas from 1910 to 1890, so as to reduce all immigration quotas.

KELS AND WIFE VISIT BEHIND PRISON BARS

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Alex Kels visited her husband at Folsom prison this morning.

There was no "scene" when the condemned murderer and his wife met in the warden's office.

The new Kels baby was not there. Several relatives accompanied Mrs. Kels.

Kels clasped his wife in his arms when they met in the warden's office. She was seated when he greeted her thus. They sat together, locked in a close embrace, for about five minutes without speaking. Tears rolled down Kels' cheeks. Mrs. Kels sobbed gently.

Mrs. E. C. Staples, Kels' sister, and Miss Mary Nolan, Mrs. Kels' nurse, were in the warden's office with her when Kels was taken inside by Guard Myers.

Kels asked about his baby and was told that it was still too young to take the auto trip from Lodi to the prison.

The crime for which Kels will pay with his life on January 4—the murder of Ed Meservey, a laborer—was not mentioned.

The meeting lasted an hour, which is the limit for prison visits.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Further charges that there had been suppression of evidence in the presentation of testimony before the senate committee were made by Forbes today.

DENIAL IS MADE TO CHARGES

Ousted Director Brands Entire Testimony of Accuser As False

DENIES DRINKING ON PACIFIC TRIP

Former Federal Official In Bitter Attack Against Former Friend

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Face to face with his principal accuser, Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, testifying before the senate investigating committee today, charged that Elias H. Mortimer had lied throughout his testimony.

With his counsel going through the Mortimer testimony, page by page, Forbes declared Mortimer had lied in every charge made against him.

Forbes denied emphatically that he had ever given Mortimer advance information of advantage to contracting companies the latter represented. He branded as "false" the testimony of Mortimer that he had given him a confidential list of proposed hospital sites.

Mortimer, sitting across the table, smiled as Forbes denied the accusations.

Shouts At Mortimer
"You lie," shouted Forbes, speaking directly to his enemy. "General, did you ever permit Mr. Mortimer to pay your expenses?" Senator Walsh asked Forbes.

"Never."

"Did Mortimer loan you $5,000?"

"No from what I know of him—"

But Forbes' counsel refused to permit him to finish the sentence. "Did Mortimer give you ten five hundred dollar bills in a bathroom of the Drake hotel, Chicago?"

"It's absolutely a lie."

"Without going into all this talk of drunkenness and parties, and other parties, please state to the committee as concisely as you can the truth about these parties."

Denies Drunkenness
"Gentlemen, I know of no drunkenness on that trip (the inspection trip to the Pacific coast in 1922) except Mr. Mortimer. I swear to God there was no carousing or anything wrong on the trip."

Asked by his counsel concerning the code which Mortimer testified was used by Forbes and favored contractors in communications regarding proposed construction, Forbes said:

"Never heard of it."

"Ever receive any messages in this code?"

"Never."

"What have you to say to Mortimer's qualified testimony that he believed you knew all about the code?"

"I'd say he lied."

"Did you ever have an understanding as testified by Mortimer regarding a three-way split of profits in hospital construction?"

Forbes denied having told Mortimer and Alfred Linney of Stockton, Cal., while at Coronado Beach that President Harding had agreed to make him secretary of the interior.

LIBRARY BOARD DEFERS ACTION FOR MONTH

The Santa Ana library board, at its meeting on the second Monday in December, will definitely decide whether improvements shall be made at the present library site, it was announced today by Dr. C. D. Ball, chairman of the library board, following a meeting of the body here last night.

Dr. Ball said that crowded conditions at the library were discussed last night in an informal way, but no action was taken. He pointed out that the board will meet Friday night with the planning commission, when the board will call attention of the commission to the necessity for developing some plan for giving immediate relief.

Declining to discuss any of the suggestions made at the board meeting, the board chairman said that discussions were strictly informal and dealt "mostly with possibilities under certain contingencies."

"It is certain we cannot permit the situation at the library to continue during the period necessary for the development and execution of plans for a civic center," said Dr. Ball. "We must have immediate relief, if the library is to continue to function with that degree of efficiency necessary to render the public the service it demands."

WEAPON CHARGE SUSPECT HELD EX-CONVICT

Exhibiting a friendly letter from Governor John J. Connors of West Virginia, who was said to have pardoned him from state prison where he was serving a sentence for murder, Arthur Suarez Hervis, dashing young Spaniard, today was arraigned before Justice J. B. Cox, who set his preliminary hearing on a felony charge for December 28, at 2 p. m.

Hervis's startling past was revealed after O. K. Carr, one of the heads of a local detective agency, had arrested him on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Carr took Hervis into custody following complaint that the Spaniard had annoyed young girls, having pursued one girl to the doorway of her home on West Fifth street, it was said.

Charge Made Felony
When it was discovered, according to Carr, that Hervis, who first gave the name of Arthur Suarez, had a criminal record and had been convicted of a felony, the status of the charge against him was automatically changed from a misdemeanor to a felony, under provisions of a new state law.

The letter from Governor Connors, indicating that Hervis had been pardoned in 1920 from prison, was supplemented by newspaper clippings describing Hervis's trial at Clarksburg, West Virginia, for the alleged shooting of another Spaniard near Zeising, W. Va.

Hervis, it was said, was pardoned on the asserted grounds that he was suffering from tuberculosis and on the understanding that he go to Arizona, which he did, it was said, upon his release.

Revolver Found
Governor Connors's letter was addressed to Phoenix, Arizona, and expressed appreciation of gratitude expressed by Hervis for his pardon, stating that many pardoned prisoners did not think of thanking their benefactor.

Carr expressed doubt that Hervis was suffering from tuberculosis. Hervis, he said, attempted to explain that someone must have slipped the revolver found upon him into his pocket without his knowledge. A holster and cartridges similar to those found in the gun were later found in Hervis's possessions, it was said.

Women, Loser In House Moving Suit, In Appeal

An appeal from judgment for $299 recently granted by Justice J. B. Cox to F. F. Thorp, plaintiff in an action for that amount against Mrs. Ruth Bowen of Orange, was on file today in the superior court, here.

Mrs. Bowen appealed the case through her attorneys, Kaufman and Martell, Thorp being represented by the firm of Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus.

Judgment was based upon a claim by Thorp for moving a house belonging to Mrs. Bowen. Mrs. Bowen asserted her house was badly damaged while being moved.

CHAMBER LAUDS U. S. BUDGET SYSTEM

Directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today were on record as favoring the present national budget system. Resolutions stating this approval were to be sent to the congressional delegation of this state, as the directors, in an adjourned session last night, took this action, at the request of the Los Angeles organization.

A copy of the resolution of the Los Angeles body opposing any attempt to do away with this asserted safeguard of public funds and a letter requesting action by the Santa Ana Chamber on the matter were presented to the board.

Plans also were made for the presenting of identification cards to campers at the chamber of commerce auto camp park. The identification cards would be presented campers who, in the opinion of the custodian of the grounds, have been satisfactory tenants. Charles P. Hill, O. H. Barr, and H. L. Hansen were named to represent the Santa Ana chamber at the banquet to be given November 24, in Los Angeles, by the San Diego junior chamber of commerce. That body accompanied by the Marine band from San Diego will visit Santa Ana at 10 a. m. for a concert. Several other cities in this section will be visited by the party.

No action was taken by the directors on the proposal that Santa Ana have a booth at the California Orange show at St. Louis, Mo., February 15 to 24.

Action also was delayed on the invitation that Santa Ana participate in the annual Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena, New Year's day.

HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN DATE DUE TONIGHT

According to O. A. Haley, team captain, responses indicate that every man selected for participation in the drive here for the sale of stock to complete financing of the proposed new hospital here will be present tonight at the workers' meeting to be held at Haley's garage, Fifth and Bush streets.

Haley said that seventy-five men would work on the fifteen teams of five men each, and that he was anticipating seventy-five to eighty men present tonight, the number including those working on the project, but not directly active on the teams.

Selection of the date when the active drive shall start will be a feature of the meeting. It is expected that the campaign will start at once.

Pointing out that in the offer of stock of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association persons solicited would be asked to make an investment and not a donation, Haley said that residents of this vicinity should support the project. In order that the city may take its place in the ranks of cities who have provided ample hospital facilities.

BREAKS WINDOW TO LOOT $100 IN JEWELRY

A thief who, after hurling a rock through the plate glass window of Fred Beckmeyer's jewelry store, 602A East Fourth street, early today, stole jewelry valued at approximately $100 and escaped. In his haste to flee from the scene the thief dropped a gold knife and chain on the sidewalk. A pedestrian found them later and returned them to Beckmeyer.

According to Beckmeyer, who lives in the rear of the store, he was awakened by the sound of falling glass. He donned some clothing and rushed to the front of the store, but the thief had made his escape. Beckmeyer said that he ran to the sidewalk hoping to catch sight of the marauder, but could see no one. The following articles of jewelry were stolen from the store:

Woman's wrist watch, Swiss movement; four gold and ruby rings; two gold watch chains, two gold knives on chains, and three jewel trays.

TIED, NERVOUS MOTHERS
are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband.
This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.—adv.

HIGH SCHOOL
An unusually interesting program awaits the members of the high school P.T.A. assembling tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. hut on the high school campus.
H. G. Nelson, principal of Julia Lathrop junior high school will be the speaker for the afternoon and has chosen as his theme, "Idealistic Education". Musical numbers will be given by Miss Margaret Wickes who will play Chopin's Schurzo in B minor and by Mrs. Morgan whose violin number will be "Romance" by Spendee.

A full attendance of members is desired at this, the second meeting of the association for the year.
JULIA LATHROP
In holding their regular meeting at Spurgeon school on Tuesday night, November 20, the Julia Lathrop P.T.A. will serve a double purpose, an observance of Father-Son night and the presentation of an educational program.

The session will open at 7:30 o'clock and one of the fathers of the association will give a short address to which a lad of the school will respond. The program to follow will be presented by Y. M. C. A. boys under the direction of the men of the P.T.A.

The duty of arranging for the refreshments will also fall to the lot of the fathers although it is pointed out that while the evening will primarily be in charge of the men, the mothers and daughters of the association will have an important part, that of being audience, and an excellent attendance is desired.

LINCOLN
At Lincoln school, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the small kindergartners, directed by their teacher, Miss Ellen Gilchrist, will have the entire P.T.A. program in charge and will see the realization of their work and dreams for many weeks.

For the children have spent time and loving thought in preparing for the program and have arranged the printed and decorated programs, paper plates and cups, place cards and other appointments, all with the Thanksgiving motif.

In presenting the program they will give songs, readings and kindergartners games while the famous kindergartners band will be directed by Master Richard Daley, specially dressed for the part.
A dramatization of "Epaminondas" will be given in which all furniture and stage equipment will be the work of the tots and as a special feature will be the appearance of Master Leonard Tanner, Fullerton's boy-wonder orator who will speak on "Fullerton, My Home Town".

A full attendance of members and friends is anticipated for the enjoyment of a unique afternoon.

MCKINLEY SCHOOL
Friday night, November 16 at 7:30 o'clock, McKinley P.T.A. members will have the pleasant experience of meeting in the new kindergarten room of the school, just completed.

Since it is the first session of the year and is in charge of the teaching staff of the school, special importance will be given the affair which will take the form of a house-warming. An excellent program has been arranged, refreshments will be served and during the social hour, inspection of the new addition will be in order.

All members and friends are urged to be in attendance and aid in making the evening a success.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. held the regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the United Presbyterian church with Mrs. J. H. Nicholson presiding.

Following the business routine, a letter of appreciation was voted to be sent to Marshal Rogers in approval of his arrests of the "Mashers". The report of the committee on decorating the float for Armistice day showed that the float was very successful. The subject was "The Landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock" and the characters were taken by William S. Kellogg, principal of Frances E. Willard junior high school, and Mrs. Kellogg, H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia Lathrop junior high school, Judge W. H. Thomas, J. H. Nickelson, Miss Edith Ward and little Hazel Leonard.

Mrs. Osborne, superintendent of Americanization work had charge of yesterday's program. Mrs. Osborne sang a hymn translated into Spanish, as she had worked a number of years among the Spanish people, and is very familiar with the language and the people. Miss Davidson assistant worker in the Methodist church among the Mexican people, led the devotional service and spoke of some of the religious work of the people.

Dr. Willa Waffle spoke on the maternity ward of the new hospital, asking that a fund be raised to support that part of the hospital work. Mrs. Panunzio, home teacher of the Americanization work of the city school brought a very interesting story of the work she is doing in the foreign department of the schools. Her message conveyed the thought that there remains constant work to be done among this people and conditions under which they are living should be made better, that they may become better citizens.

A Picture That Tells a Story

The gentleman at our left seems to be having difficulty in choosing a tie to go with his new English suit. In view of the colored band around his hat, the frat stripe tie immediately in front of him seems the logical choice.

The chances are his face wore no such look of indecision when he chose the suit he wears. It's one of those carelessly loose English suits that are THE thing now. Note that the coat has no vent—that the trousers are cut full—the trousers, we might add, have pleated tops.

These suits come in brown mixtures and blue with light stripe.

Emotion In Music Is Exemplified In An Interesting Way

Deviating somewhat from the long-accepted statement that music appeals to the emotions rather than to the intellect, Mrs. Jay C. Hamill in an interesting paper on "Emotions of Music" prepared for the Music section of Ebell's society meeting Monday with Miss Leonora Tompkins, declared that while intellect gives direction to music, emotion is the propelling force.

"Music," she declared, "contains every emotion known to man and is associated with his every effort to draw closer to Divinity. Its highest qualities come from an underlying spiritual force."

The speaker also touched upon the curative powers attributed to music and its place in modern therapeutics and ended her excellent paper with the "Musicians' creed" which was unanimously adopted as the section's code of ethics.

Mrs. Hamill also had charge of the musical program which followed and amplified her paper, and illustrated the different emotions as presented in musical compositions.

The section members felt particularly fortunate in having Miss Edith Cornell with them and were delighted with the smooth richness of her voice in two beautiful numbers, "Oh Rest in the Lord" from Handel's "Elijah" illustrative of the religious theme and "My Boy" by Sidney Homer, touching the depths of poignant grief.

The picturesque and descriptive were presented by Miss Leonora Tompkins (who also played Miss Cornell's accompaniments) who gave Schuman's "The Prophet Bird," "Birds at Dawn" by Fannie Dillon and as a final number, McDowell's "To a Water Lily" which left her hearers breathless with the beauty of her interpretation.

Intense love was portrayed in "Liebestraum" by List offered by a trio composed of Miss Tompkins, piano, Mrs. Nina Staples, cello and Mrs. Beatrice Le Blanc, violin.

The number was particularly beautiful and was followed by a young group in which gaiety, joy and lightness were stressed. Mrs. Harry Brackett offered a charming conception of three emotions by singing "The Robin" by Niedlinger; "Fair Piper" by Brewer and "An Open Secret" by Huntington Woodman.

The program was brought to a close by the magnificent Chopin Scherzo in B Flat minor, played with a sweeping force and remarkable expression by Miss Mabel Krause, the composition embodying all the emotions named by Mrs. Hamill in her arrangement of her theme.

The afternoon was an unusually valuable one to the forty or more music lovers who were fortunate enough to be present.

Thanksgiving Party

Back in Ohio, enjoying the wonderful blaze of color with which Ohio forests welcome the approach of King Winter, Mrs. Eugene Robinson, (Florence Amrhein Robinson) former society editor of The Register, has been having a wonderful visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Philippe Amrhein and renewing the friendships of her girlhood days in Toledo.

Recently she returned some of the pleasant courtesies extended her by presenting a California dinner to a little group of friends. All of the delicious dishes were typically of the south-west and were keenly enjoyed by the epicurean guests. But none elicited more praise than the tamale pie which Mrs. Robinson makes to perfection. And here is the recipe she used.

TAMALE PIE
Line an earthen bowl or casserole with yellow corn-meal mush, spreading some on a large plate (first dipped in cold water) to serve later as the crust to the pie.

Cook two pounds of beef cut into small pieces, until tender and add one can of Del Monte chili sauce, diced celery, onions and green peppers to taste, with one tablespoon chili powder and one pint ripe olives.

Thicken with flour, pour into mush-lined bowl, cover with top crust and bake.

Book Review Folk Are Told of the Life of Walter Hines Page

"In the death of Walter Hines Page, the United States lost one of its greatest statesmen and the people of the United States, one of their greatest representatives," was the manner in which Miss Jean Lasby summarized her views of that eminent statesman and ambassador to Great Britain, following a masterly review of "the Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page," presented last night at the Edward M. Nealley home before members of the Book Review club.

In opening her review, Miss Lasby spoke of the life of the statesman as spanning two great wars, that internecine strife in our own country, the Civil War, when he was but a small child, but which colored the memories of his childhood in a remarkably vivid manner, and the World War during which he represented his country at the Court of St. James, and which was followed so soon by his untimely death, December 21, 1918, just forty days after the signing of the Armistice.

Childhood days of Walter Hines Page in his North Carolina home were lightly sketched by the speaker who read bits from the biography which perfectly sketched the eager, impressionable child for her hearers.

His early education at Bingham university, at a small Methodist school with its disappointingly low estimates of character, and the impossibilities of the University of North Carolina, just opened to members of the Negro race with a consequent loss of prestige and lowering of standard, were all dwelt upon, prefacing the great educational opportunity of his life.

This was his selection as one of twenty youths—the flower of student bodies of the United States—who should first profit by the founding of what is now an educational power of the nation, Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore, where he specialized in Greek.

A desire to aid in the reorganization and rehabilitation of his native state's university led him to apply for the chair of Greek at the University of North Carolina. The refusal of his application sent him into a new field—that of journalism, and he succeeded Eugene Field on a St. Joseph, Mo. daily paper. Five years in this field with attendant travels all over the United States was followed by his appointment as special correspondent for the tariff commission, thus making his entry into politics.

Journalism finally took Mr. Page to the editorial section of the Forum and thence at the age of 43 years to the editorship of Atlantic Monthly. Despite his thorough enjoyment of his position as Atlantic editor and therefore an encourager of new and undoubted talent, it was not until he presented his own magazine "The World's Work," that Mr. Page got the most out of that phase of his life. Later becoming a member of the great publishing house of Doubleday, Page and Company, he was instrumental in adding to the distinctive literature of the United States by publishing the books of Jacob Riis, Booker T. Washington, Helen Keller's "Story of My Life" and kindred notable contributions to the art of letters.

"Mr. Page's public work may be grouped under two heads," declared Miss Lasby, "that for his native state of North Carolina and that for the nation as ambassador to Great Britain."

"Appalled at the discovery that illiteracy in his state averaged 29 per cent, he launched an educational campaign with a remarkable address on 'The Forgotten Man,' in which an appeal for the illiterate—the forgotten men in the progress of education—was so strong that Rockefeller came to the front with $55,000,000 and school houses in the state were being started at the rate of one a day."

"An inestimable service to southern agriculture resulted from his efforts to advance the productivity of the South by scientific farming. And his third great service was in the discovery and isolation of the hookworm, so-called germ of laziness which had been the scourge of the South."

Mr. Page's national services were instituted when a friendship of thirty years' standing with Woodrow Wilson gave him his opportunity in politics. A fortuitous chain of circumstances prevented him from being selected to fill one of the cabinet offices, Fate seeming to have reserved him for that post he filled so honorably, ambassador to England.

Among the big problems confronting him there, were Mexican troubles, and the question of Panama tolls which he considered the most serious thing he had to face. With the repeal of that famous bill, the confidence so nearly lost was returned.

His position during the terrible months of war, still so clearly defined in the public mind, was touched on by Miss Lasby who outlined the quickness of judgment, unerring instinct and ability to read character which he displayed in selecting men to carry on his work, as witnessed in the case of Herbert Hoover.

"His far-seeing understanding of militarism and the war made him an outstanding character while his placing of politics on a personal basis endeared him to England," declared Miss Lasby, continuing "His is one of the great personalities in United States history and his memory will always survive as a great politician as well as a great citizen."

In concluding her penetrating analysis of the book and the

Double Girls Enjoy Pleasant Evening at Douglass Home

Entertained at the home of Miss Emma Douglass, 502 South Parton street, members of the Double L. club last night had a most enjoyable evening as they chatted over their needlework.

The recent celebration of Armistice day offered the decorative theme for the evening and Miss Douglass used red and white carnations as her flowers combined with tri-color garlands and flags. The same patriotic motif was expressed in the refreshments served as the evening drew to a close.

Enthusiastic plans were made for a Christmas party to be given in December by Miss Verdelie Brock, enridge who has offered the hospitality of her sister's home to the club. This is the pretty home of Mrs. Edwin T. McFadden on East Seventeenth street.

Three club guests were entertained last night, Mrs. Joseph Daninger and the Misses Jo and G. Bowser. Club members gathered for the evening included Mrs. Leo Schmiedeburg, Mrs. Carl Edgar, Mrs. H. Van de Walker, Mrs. Ansel Nordeen, the Misses Eleanor Loesch, Nora Lykke, Jennie Polard, Marguerite Galbraith, Verdelie Breckenridge, Ruth Robertson and the hostess, Miss Douglass.

On account of the American Legion hall being used for other purposes tonight the Auxiliary meeting will be held on its regular night, Thursday, November 15, instead of Wednesday as announced previously, and will be at 7:15 sharp so that those having tickets to hear Harry Lauder will have an opportunity to attend the meeting first.

Members are asked to be sure and come out as important business will be discussed.

character inspiring it, Miss Lasby read a little group of short letters incorporated in the book, one, a whimsical little Christmas letter to his small nine-month-old grandson, and another in dignified and sonorous phrases which will be one of the treasures of that grandson's manhood, and also a charmingly tender letter to his wife written not long before that untimely death which ended the career of one of the great men of the United States.

Veterans' Day Affair Given By Patriotic Organizations

With over 100 persons gathered for a pot-luck dinner and that number increased by many more until nearly 300 Sons and Daughters of Veterans and Civil War veterans gathered for the evening program. The local camp and tent of the former order considered that their patriotic evening celebrating Veterans' day was an unqualified success.

The affair was held on the evening of Armistice day in the G. A. R. hall and the delicious dinner to which each woman present added a home-prepared dish, was a triumph of culinary skill. Mrs. Leonora Ward was chairman of the dinner committee and was ably assisted by the members of her committee in planning for a well-balanced menu.

Walter H. Sonnerby, commander of the Sons had the program in charge and announced the singing of "America" as the first number with all present joining in.

Professor D. C. Cianfoni gave a most pleasing trombone solo with Miss Adeline Cochems as his accompanist. The first speaker was Harry A. Thayer of Santa Barbara, the division commander who was followed by Fred C. Martin of Los Angeles, division vice-commander.

Mrs. Everett White whose lovely voice is a favorite with the organizations, then sang after which Arthur M. Clark of Carpinteria, division secretary and treasurer, talked as did Roy E. Langworthy of Pomona, division chief of staff.

A clever reading, "The Best American," was presented by Mrs. Florence Hawkkinson and the Rev. F. T. Porter gave an interesting talk as did Commander Smith of the G. A. R.

The patriotic drill by women of the Relief Corps was splendidly given and was followed by a social hour when refreshments of doughnuts and coffee were served. Impromptu speaking marked this hour and yielded short talks by L. A. Ludwig, past commander of the local Sons of Veterans; Past Commander Yont of Pomona camp. Brother Heathman, commander of Pomona camp; Brother Wamsley of Rosecrans camp, Los Angeles and Mrs. Davis, president of Fullerton tent, Daughters of Veterans.

Inn Dinner Dances To Be Changed to Saturday Night

In accordance with popular demand, G. A. Schweiger, manager of St. Ann's Inn, today announced that the popular semi-monthly dinner dances which have been presented this year at the Inn on Friday nights, would be given on Saturday nights instead, beginning with the affair scheduled for December 15.

While it was first announced that there would be a dance this coming Friday night, Manager Schweiger today stated that conflicting dates would make it necessary to cancel the plan and the next affair of that nature would be on the night of November 30 when the original date would be maintained. Among affairs scheduled for that night is the dinner-dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Trago will entertain and for which many invitations have been issued. Other hosts may make reservations for that night at any time.

December dances will be held on the nights of the fifteenth and the twenty-ninth.

Business Women's Club

That there may be no confusion in the minds of members of the Business and Professional Women's club as to the date of the evening dinner at the Inn, it was today announced by the president, Miss Doris Robbins, that the original date selected had been retained and that on Monday night, November 26, the affair would be held. There will be the usual noon luncheon of the club at the Inn next Monday, November 19 but on the following Monday, the luncheon will be dispensed with and the members will not meet until that night when an excellent program will await them. Miss Harriet Whidden and her committee will have the program in charge.

There was no meeting of the club this week on account of the Armistice day celebration falling on the regular date.

Escapes Officers, But Sends $500 Run Fine In Order to Live Here

Rufino Nieblas believes that it is worth $500 to be able to live in Santa Ana. As a proof of this belief, City Recorder W. F. Heathman today booked the payment of this amount by Nieblas, through his wife and attorney, as a fine for possession of liquor. Nieblas paid the fine, although he had escaped police officers who raided his home several weeks ago and secured a large quantity of illicit liquor. According to his wife, Nieblas is anxious to return to his home here and had notified her that he would plead guilty and pay his fine. This message was relayed to Recorder Heathman who assessed Rufino $500, or all the law permits.

SLASH IN FRUIT TRANSIT RATE HAILED HERE

Fruit growers of Orange county today were jubilant over the news received regarding confirmation of the rate reductions agreed to between shippers and railroads. A saving of $3,000,000 by California fruit growers was predicted in Los Angeles when C. O. Cornwell, California fruit exchange officer, stated that the interstate commerce commission had confirmed the rate.

News of the rate reductions came as a surprise here as growers had not expected action before Christmas. The rate, however, will go into effect December 3. The rate fight has been on for many years, and the victory culminates negotiations by the California Citrus league, traffic committee. There are a few lines in the East on which the new rate does not apply. The league plans to take up rates with these roads immediately, it was learned.

This year's orange crop, it is estimated, will be 20 per cent larger than last year's, with a proportionate saving in freight rates.

BIG SILVERADO MILL STAMPS DROPPING

Resumption today of operation of the sixty-ton mill, following recent uncovering of a body of ore, presages successful and permanent operation of the old Silverado mine in Silverado canyon, according to a statement made today by Frank Chapman of Fullerton, manager of the Blue Light Silver Mines company, which has been engaged in development work for the past year and a half.

Declaring that the company had found at the 700 foot level a vein that other operators of the mine in the past forty years have attempted to locate, Chapman said that enough ore had been blocked out to "run the mill the rest of our lives."

Pointing out that the ore carries silver to the approximate value of $17 per ton, and a small portion of lead, Chapman said that the ore could be worked at profit.

"Miners of the past have been unable to find anything below the 300 foot level," said Chapman. "Believing that a rich body of ore would be found at greater depths, we have devoted a year and a half in an endeavor to find the big vein—and have been successful. It is below a fault that halted previous operators. The new strike does not carry the ore values found on the higher levels, but the vein is so large and regular that it assures success of the company."

Stating that mill operation has been dependent on the water supply available from the creek, with the supply falling in the summer and necessitating shutting down of the concentrator, Chapman said that the company, since closing the mill early last summer, had developed a permanent water supply that will make it possible to keep the mill in operation throughout the year. The water was developed by driving a tunnel 700 feet into a mountain.

Ten men are employed in the mine and four at the mill, Chapman said.

Old 'Tar' Proves His Seamanship by Songs; Allowed to Travel On

"Old Jack," erstwhile explorer of the high seas, today was on his way "north" to explore some dry land. But before he left Santa Ana he had caused such excitement on West Tenth street yesterday evening that the police were called to hear his story.

As complained of, "Old Jack," who said he was 69 years old and a "tar," was found sitting on the curb, with a bundle weighing 150 pounds at his side.

That he was traveling, was apparent to Inspector Smithwick and Patrolman Yoder, who responded to the call. That he was a "tar from the high seas" was just as apparent when he sang for them some songs popular on the waves a decade ago.

He was willing to continue his journey and so were the police.

An average of 5564 Pullman cars are in daily service on the railroads of the United States. To run and keep them in condition requires the services of 10,000 porters and 4000 car cleaners.

IDEAL YOUTH IS PORTRAYED TO CHURCH MEN

Seventy men and boys present last night at the father and son banquet of the Men's club of the First Baptist church today were recalling, with interest, statements of C. G. Dickson, director of boys' work at the First Presbyterian church, Pasadena, among which was the declaration that a real boy hates to mind the baby, but does it because he loves his mother.

The director's discourse was predicated on "The Kind of a Boy Your Dad Would Like."

"The kind of a boy your dad would like is a boy who keeps himself clean, plays a square game, is no piker and who hates a molly-coddle," said the speaker. "He hates to mind the baby, but does it because he loves his mother. He hates a snob, is loyal to his gang and respects all women. He has a clean mind, is reverent and loves his church."

E. C. Rundstrom, president, presided, with Max O. Robbins in charge of the program, which included an inspiring talk by boys by Roland E. Dye, Boy Scout executive; presentation by Herbert Smith to W. H. Cook of a Bible, in behalf of the boys' class taught by Cook; humorous talk by George Graham, a member of the class, on "Bringing Up Father;" clever discussion by Robert Rundstrom, class member, on the subject of "What I Would Do If I Were Father;" musical numbers by the church orchestra, and community singing, led by Dye. The banquet room was decorated in patriotic colors.

Man Builds Tiny Church To Worship God of Sun

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—Dr. Marcel Wilson, a native of San Francisco and a resident of Sacramento, has accomplished his life's ambition. He has erected a little clay and rock temple to his god—God of Sun—on the banks of the Sacramento river, just above the city. The temple, perfect in design, is five by seven feet broad, and is six feet high, and Dr. Wilson has labored for five weeks in building it. Dr. Wilson declares his little temple will be free of petty strife, that he claims exists in other churches. The builder declares the church will stand for years as a mark of devotion and respect to the God of Sun, yet as soon as the river rises this winter the clay temple will be carried away in the flood.

CUB LIONS NOT KITTENS, TOTS OF S. A. FIND

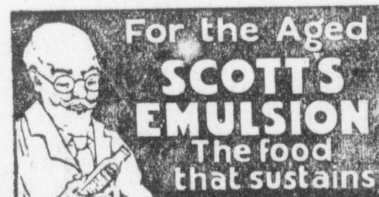

Tommie, 4, and Bettie Ann, 2, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Ham of this city, today were playing at the family home innocent and unmindful of the shock they gave their mother and father yesterday at a railway station in Los Angeles when they picked up a couple of lion cubs, thinking them kittens.

Forty lions were being shipped from Los Angeles to the California industrial exposition at San Francisco. Two cubs, two weeks old, attracted the attention of the Ham children. They made a run for the supposed kittens and each child had a lion in his arm before the bewildered parents designed the purpose of the kiddies in breaking away from them.

"Sure Mrs. Ham and I were scared when we saw what the children had done," said Ham today. "However, the lions were too small to be ferocious and they made no attempt to bite or scratch the children."

Mr. and Mrs. Ham were at the station to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Kennedy, parents of Mrs. Ham, who have been visiting here for the past month, and who today were on their way to their home in Omaha.

A member of the draft board at Omaha, Kennedy attended the American Legion national convention in San Francisco. Following the convention he and Mrs. Kennedy came to Santa Ana. A son, Allen, is a member of the Legion. He returned to Omaha after a visit here of two or three days.

Hair Like Mine

Has come to thousands in this easy way

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I found in France, many years ago, the greatest hair help science has discovered. My mother used it, and at 57 she had hair like mine today.

I have used it. My hair is the marvel of millions. It grows finer every year. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. And now, at the age of 62, it is hair that most girls envy.

I have supplied this help to countless friends, and it brought them like results. So I am convinced that it means to millions such hair as cannot come without it. And I am going to help those millions get it.

What experts say
This formula, perfected by French experts, is based on lifetimes of hair study. They gave me these reasons for its amazing results.

It combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. They check the hair growth and destroy the hair. They choke the pigment which gives color to the hair.

Thus it cleans the scalp, then it stimulates and fertilizes. Hair thrives under these conditions, just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden.

It cannot harm the hair. It does not affect hair color, natural or artificial. It deals only with the scalp—the soil of the hair.

And all the results come through reviving the roots.

Quick and easy

I call this formula my Hair Youth. I apply it with an eye dropper directly to the scalp. This take but a minute a day, and it does not muss the hair.

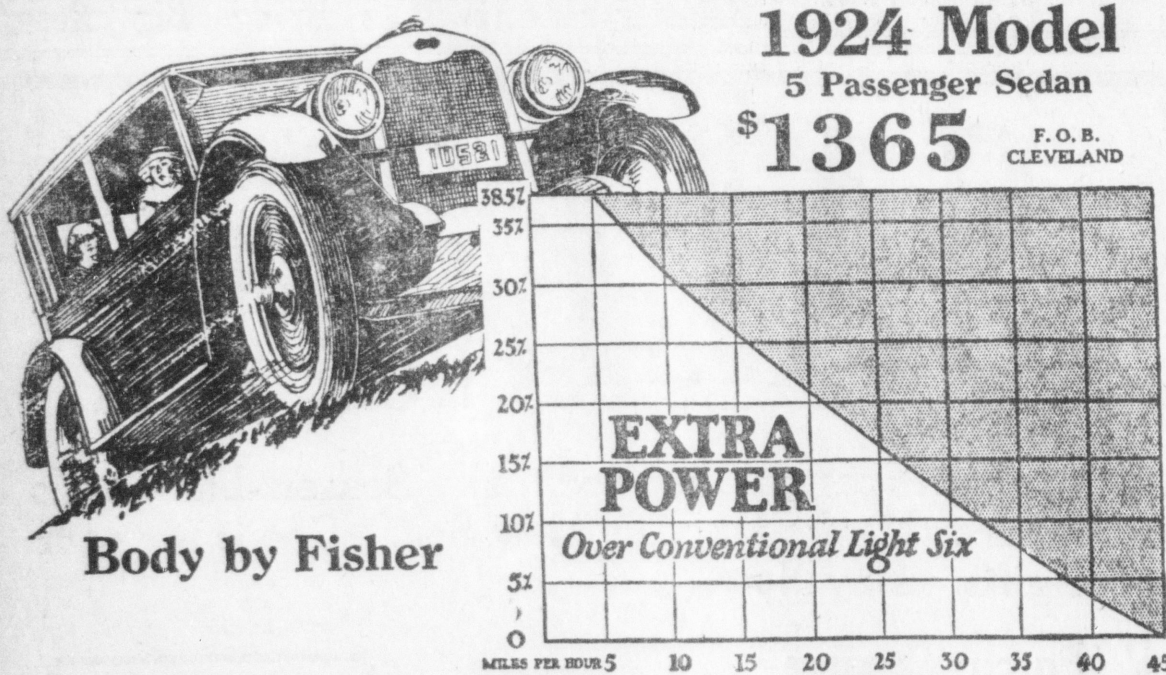

One feels at once its cleansing, stimulating action. And my own hair shows what it does for hair health and hair beauty.

Every dealer sells my Hair Youth under guarantee. If one bottle fails to delight you, he will return your money. I want every woman, without a penny of risk, to learn what my Hair Youth does.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 with eye dropper. Also my Youth Cream, based on fruits. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Try my Hair Youth at my risk. Do it now. The results are too fine to miss. Then I think you will want the other helps which I do so much for me. And all of them are now at your command. Edna Wallace Hopper. Business address, Waukesha, Wis.

Miss Hopper is now playing the Pantage's vaudeville circuit of the western states.

The Extra Power Does It!

—Why this Big, Handsome Sedan will
Out-perform most Open Cars

THE owner of this new sedan does not have his enjoyment of closed car comfort penalized by sluggish performance.

His car displays a masterful high gear supremacy on hills. In traffic its response to the accelerator is prompt and unlabored.

He passes bigger sixes on hills; his getaway in traffic is swifter than most open cars because the new Cleveland motor was designed to make the Cleveland do just those things!

At slow traffic speed it develops 38 1/2% more horsepower than the motor of the conventional light six. And throughout the normal driving range, its extra power over the average six in the Cleveland class ranges from 16% to 30%.

To that feature this $1365 sedan owes much of its remarkable popularity. And the balance is based on its smart lines, its roomy, well finished interior, its unfailing dependability, and the moderation of its price. Drive it before you buy any closed car.

SCHOOL ON GAS ENGINE CARE SCHEDULED AT ORANGE

Week of Adjusting, Repair Details and Lectures Starts December 3

SHOP WORK STRESSED

Tractor Owners of County Expected to Register; Fee Held Nominal

The agricultural extension service of California will offer a one-week school of instruction in gas engine care and operation at Orange, December 3 to 8, W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, announced here today.

The course, which will entail only a registration fee of $2 for each student, will consist of lectures, demonstrations, and practice work on adjusting, repairing and overhauling.

"About two hours each day," Cory said, "will be spent in lecture demonstrations covering such subjects as gas engine parts and principles of operation, fuels, carburetors, magnetos, cooling systems, lubrication, transmission of power, tractor operation and tractor management adjusting."

"Practice work will be given the remaining six hours in the shop. This will consist of shop demonstrations in adjusting, timing, trouble shooting and overhauling of used tractors. The shop work will be divided into three parts: (1) Bench repairing, work on machines or tractor parts, (2) Timing and trouble shooting, (3) Overhauling of used tractors."

"This school is primarily for the tractor owner to better fit himself for the most economical care and operation of the machine. We hope all tractor owners will take advantage of this splendid course."

Woman Stabs Self With Shears; Dies

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 14.—Unable to bear pain brought on by illness, Mrs. Josephine B. Street, wife of Guy F. Street, Berkeley high school instructor, stabbed herself with a pair of scissors at the home of her nurse, Miss Josephine Berkeley, 2215 Thirteenth avenue, Berkeley, and dropped dead after running from the Larson home to Twelfth avenue and Twenty-third street. Mrs. Street was 48 years old. She had been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Street was alone when she stabbed herself, according to a report the police made by her husband. Street had stepped from his wife's room and upon his return espied Mrs. Street staggering away from the house. When he caught up to her she collapsed and died.

FARM BUREAU BODY AIDS DEVELOPMENT OF COLORADO RIVER

A resolution urging Governor Prof. J. W. Nelson, secretary, all were elected unanimously and without opposition as officials of the federation, according to Cory. "The election of Nelson as secretary was not a surprise," Cory said. "It was known for some time that V. C. Bryant would not seek re-election and the acceptance of the position on the part of Nelson removed the difficulty of looking further. The attitude of the organization was to seek the proper man for the job and not permit the man to seek the job. They believe they found him in Prof. Nelson."

Nelson has been connected with the Extension service for some time, occupying the position of assistant state director. He is a man well known in the state, well liked by the farmers, well informed and knows the farm bureau aspirations as well, perhaps, as any man in the state.

But one contest was in the election of Dr. W. H. Walker to succeed himself as a national representative. There was doubt expressed as to whether Dr. Walker, who is now in Europe studying economic conditions for the government, would be home in time to attend the meeting. To overcome this possibility, some wished another to be elected. Dr. Walker was retained with President Hardison named as his colleague. Secretary-elect Nelson will attend the meeting as a member of the house of delegates, who have the privilege of the floor, but may not vote.

NEED OF FRUIT MEET AID IS TOLD HERE

Pointing out the far-reaching importance of the fifty-sixth convention of the California fruit growers and farmers, to be held here December 6 and 7, D. Eymann Huff of El Modena, chairman of the publicity committee for Orange county, today besought the co-operation of everyone in this district to aid in making the convocation a success.

"The program," Huff said, "will be of interest to every fruit grower and farmer of this state. The most important topics of the day are to be discussed by the biggest men engaged in agriculture, transportation and immigration."

"It is hoped that this convention will be one of the most important and outstanding history-making fruit growers and farmers' conventions ever held in this state. In order that it be such, it is necessary that we have the assistance of every citizen that has at heart the interest of this great state."

Others on the committee are: J. P. Baumgartner, Dale King, J. M. Woodworth, S. C. Hartranft, A. P. Prater, Carl V. Newman, C. C. Chapman, S. W. McCulloch, A. A. Brock, Harold E. Wahlberg, Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, Harry S. Smith, H. W. Lewis.

SOLONS INVITE BEE DISEASES ALL TO VISIT COUNTY FARM

Purebred Animals Will Be Feature Attractions at Party November 22

The purebred dairy cows and the equally blue-blooded hogs at the county farm are to be the feature attractions at a big party that the board of supervisors plans to hold at the county farm November 22, it was announced today.

"How many Orange county folk now that the county maintains a farm in connection with the hospital?" queried H. E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor.

"How many have been on the farm to see the purebred dairy herd, purebred hogs, and commercial orchards?"

Opportunity Offers "Those who haven't seen these exceptional assets of the county institution are urged not to miss the special opportunity that will present itself November 22."

"The board of supervisors is giving a general invitation to all Orange county folk to come that day and get acquainted with the farm. The Agricultural Extension service and farm bureau will assist in the program of the day, at the invitation of the board."

Plain Livestock Program "The morning will be devoted to a livestock program beginning at 10 o'clock. The dairy department of the farm bureau will hold its monthly meeting at the farm, as will also the Milk Producers' association of Southern California.

"The afternoon will be devoted to a trip through the orchard. Citrus fertilization will be discussed by the farm advisor and W. R. Schoonover, citrus specialist with the Extension service."

A picnic lunch will be served at noon. Bring your lunch baskets and be prepared to spend the day."

Value of Pig Club Demonstrated by Boy

About eight years ago a farm boy in a remote section of Rowan County, N. C., joined a pig club which the county agricultural extension agent was organizing, and, as pig club members do, under the guidance of the county agents, he fed and cared for a pig, in this case a Poland China gilt. During the next year the county lost its extension agent. Recently when a new agent came to the county and visited this section he found, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, that the club member, J. E. Moran, now grown and on his own farm, has kept up his club practices, has developed a herd of Poland China hogs of excellent type, and is regarded as the best hog grower in his community.

Farmers Use Legumes To Fertilize Soils

More than 652,000 acres of legumes were plowed under for green manure in 1922 by farmers following the advice of agricultural extension workers on methods of building up soil fertility, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture.

U. S. Agriculturist Reveals Methods of Controlling Dangerous Malady

As a result of the freedom which American beekeepers formerly enjoyed regarding the importation of bees, there are now three brood diseases, Nosema disease, the so-called paralysis, and perhaps other diseases, all of which, so far as they are contagious or infectious, were assuredly brought to this country from abroad, since the honeybee is not native to America, a statement received at the office of the Orange county farm bureau here said.

"There is still at least one dangerous disease of adult bees which apparently is not present in the United States, although it is prevalent in most countries of Europe, particularly in Great Britain, France, and Switzerland. This is the disease of Wight disease, which is commonly called, which is caused by parasitic mites which invade the thoraxes of bees and feed on their blood."

"This results in interference with the flight muscles of the bee, ultimately causing death."

"The most common symptom of a severe attack of Wight disease in a bee colony is the fact that many of the bees are crawling about on the ground unable to fly."

In a new circular, No. 257, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture "The Occurrence of Diseases of Adult Bees, H. E. Phillips, apiculturist, discusses the characteristics and European distribution of Wight disease, methods for controlling it abroad, and the measures taken in this country to prevent its introduction."

A copy of the regulations governing the importation of adult honeybees into the United States is included in an appendix to the bulletin. Under an act of Congress of August 31, 1922, no adult honeybees may be imported except for purposes of experimental or scientific study. Exception is made of countries in which the Secretary of Agriculture shall have determined that no diseases dangerous to adult honeybees exist. The only country at present coming under this exception is the Dominion of Canada, where preventive measures similar to our own are taken against the introduction of bee diseases, especially the Isle of Wight disease.

Department records of county extension work show an increasing interest among farmers in the keeping of farm accounts, a larger number of accounts being kept and analyzed during the past year than in any preceding period. In many instances farmers found that they had received only one-half as much from their livestock as the feed consumed by the livestock was worth, even though their crop yields were good. Some farmers discovered an even worse condition, particularly where they had purchased additional feed.

The productivity of livestock is one of the most important factors in farm returns upon farms producing livestock, the department says. Losses may be due to poor stock, or to improper feeding and management. Wide variations are also found in the use of man and horse labor. In other cases small income is the result of poor crop yields. Careful study of the various elements that make up the farm business indicate how any particular farmer may be reorganized to show larger profit. To assist farmers in their bookkeeping, special farm account books have been prepared by the department of agriculture in co-operation with the State agricultural colleges and may be obtained from the extension divisions of the colleges.

Use of Lime in War On Acid Soil Bared Finding that the fields in which they desired to plant legumes had acid soil, some 48,000 farmers in 1922, followed the recommendation of their county agent to apply lime on these fields. They used for this purpose, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, about 627,000 tons of lime or limestone.

ORANGE COUNTY RANCHERS TO STRIVE HARD FOR HONOR OF HAVING WORLD STEER PRIZES

Speaking of rivalry between the East and California, H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, declared that "Uncle Bing" shown here, and said to be the biggest steer in the world, belongs to Kansas. It's a far cry from Orange County to Garden City, Kan., but many ranchers here sincerely expect to take some big stock honors to themselves before many years, Wahlberg declared.

COST CHECK ON 28,000 FARMS U. S. TASK

Analyzing cost records and farm management systems on 28,000 farms is one of the diverse roles played by the United States Department of Agriculture the past year. The purpose of the work is to discover the factors that make for an efficient, business-like agriculture, and then to spread the gospel of better farm management among the entire agricultural community.

Particularly in these times, department officials point out, when most farming costs are relatively higher than the prices of many farm products the keeping and analysis of farm accounts by farmers is of great importance. Costs and returns must be carefully studied if business is to show a profit.

Temperature Forecasts to Be Made; Says Orange County Not Immune

The United States weather bureau is again prepared to aid the citrus fruit growers of this vicinity in combating the frost menace during the coming winter, and by conducting temperature surveys and by issuing minimum temperature forecasts for the benefit of those who do orchard heating, it was learned here today.

Harold A. Rathbone, who handled the work in this district last year and who is in charge for the coming season, outlined his work as follows:

"It is the aim of the weather bureau to make this work of maximum benefit to the growers of this section and, with this in view special attention is being paid to thermometers and their exposure. All growers of citrus fruit are strongly urged to submit their instruments to the local official in charge for examination."

Markings Should Be Plain "Those having thermometers which were purchased through the Fruit Growers' Supply company should have the markings upon the glass stems waterproofed so that exposure to the weather will not cause the calibrations to come off. This type of instrument is especially made for orchard use, by one of the world's best instrument manufacturers, and its accuracy is unquestionable. The price of this thermometer is very moderate."

"Special attention will be given to instruments of this type, although other good makes will be carefully examined. This work will be done without cost of any sort, and fruit growers should avail themselves of the opportunity."

Nov. 20 Last Day "It is suggested that those wishing this service should bring their thermometers to their packing house managers, plainly marked with the owner's name and address. All instruments must be in before November 20, as it will be impossible to take of the work after that date."

Rathbone has established his headquarters at the Leffingwell ranch, near Whittier, and makes a complete tour of this district once each week. These trips are made in order to check up on temperature forecasts for the survey maps prepared for orchard heating.

According to Rathbone, orchard heating is not necessary in Orange county, except in two localities. Practically all ranchers, however, in the Whittier district are forced to use artificial heat during the winter months.

There are thirty-five stations in Rathbone's district where government recording thermometers are stationed. In the Whittier district, where the temperature is liable to drop to a point low enough to necessitate the use of heating pots, he visits the stations and makes daily readings and publishes a daily temperature forecast. In this section where artificial heat is not necessary the stations are visited but once a week.

This service has proven of vast benefit to the ranchers of the district, Rathbone said today. He added that he would be on duty in this district until March, 1924, or until danger of damage to fruit crops through frost has passed.

Infestation of Corn Borer In Ohio Crows

Considerable increase in the degree of infestation by the European corn borer in Ohio has been noted during the past month in the infested territory, states a report to the United States Department of Agriculture. One field has been observed which yielded as high as 17 per cent of the stalks infested. No definite indication has yet been found that the insect will be two brooded this season under Ohio conditions.

Seeing Things

It is peculiarly true that some of the most usual things we see in our everyday life are in reality most remarkable if we but investigate them a little. It is also true that some of our simplest actions involve a number of complicated processes of which a lesser number than old Mother Nature could never have been the inventor.

We are walking through an apple orchard and a beautiful red apple attracts our attention—we reach up, pluck the apple from the tree and proceed to enjoy it to the full. Now, let us find out what has really happened.

By means of our sense of sight we were notified that there was an apple here and just where it was. Just how we saw it will be told later. Having been notified of the apple's presence the brain conceived a desire to have this apple and then what did it do? By means of the nerves it notified the hands and arm as to just what was necessary to do to obtain it, and then the lips, tongue, teeth and stomach were notified of the part that they must play.

Now we must remember that if we had not first seen the apple none of the other actions would have taken place nor could we have gratified our desire to obtain it.

So let us see just what we do when we see things and also how we do it. Most of us remember that in our school days we learned that the human eye is really a living camera. It is indeed, but a far more wonderful camera than any one ever constructed by mortal man!

A camera has a shutter, an iris diaphragm, a lens, and a plate or film. The shutter admits the light when we want it admitted, the iris diaphragm admits more or less light as it is desired, the lens forms the picture on the plate or film and the plate or film takes and keeps a record of the picture thus formed.

And now about our eyes—the lids close when we do not want to see, the iris, the colored part of the eye, lets the pupil become smaller or larger to admit more or less light, and a little lens in the eye focusses the rays of light and causes to be formed, on the retina of the eye, a small and inverted picture of the objects viewed. And is that all? Not by a great deal!

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane serves a term in prison for forgery. He visits a northern post of the Hudson Bay Company, where he meets a one-time friend, Gerald Ainley, who promises to visit Stane's camp at midnight.

Stane becomes acquainted with a beautiful Indian girl named Miskodeed. At midnight Stane is attacked and when he regains consciousness he is in a canoe with Indians.

Ainley takes a trip with a governor of the company and falls in love with Helen Yardley, the governor's niece. Helen disappears from her uncle's camp and Gerald with an Indian guide goes in search of her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

THAT evening he camped at the foot of a fall, which he had heard of, but never before seen, and spent the whole of the next day in portaging his belongings to navigable water, and on the following evening well beyond the rocky rapids, where the river ran so swiftly, made his camp, happily conscious that now the river presented no barrier for two hundred miles.

As he sat smoking outside his little tent, an absent, thoughtful look upon his face, his eyes fixed dreamily on the river, his mind reverted once more to the problem of recent happenings, and as he considered it, there came to him the picture of Miskodeed as he had seen her running towards him between the willows just before the blow which had knocked him unconscious. She had cried to him to put him on his guard, and the apprehension in her face as he remembered it told him that she knew of the ill that was to befall him. He recalled the directness of her speech in their first conversation and smiled at the naïveté of her estimate of himself. Then the smile died, leaving the absent, thoughtful look more pronounced, and in the same moment the vision of Miskodeed was obliterated by the vision of Helen Yardley.

Again, as he recalled the steady, scrutinizing glance of her gray eyes, he felt the blood rioting in his heart, and for a moment his eyes were alight with dreams. Then he laughed in sudden bitterness.

"What a confounded fool I am!"

he said. "A discharged convict—"

The utterance was suddenly checked; and an interested look came on his face. There was something coming down the river. He rose quickly to his feet in order to get a better view of the object which had suddenly floated into his line of vision. It was a canoe. It appeared to be empty, and thinking it was a derelict drifting from some camp up river, he threw himself down again, for even if he saved it, it could be of no possible use to him. He wondered whether the current would swing it clear; and now watched it with interest since he had once heard a riverman declare that anything that surrendered itself completely to a current would clear obstructions. He had not believed the theory at the time, and now before his eyes it was disproved; for the derelict swung straight towards the rocks, then twisted half-way round, as it was caught by some swirl, and struck a sharp piece of rock broadside on.

Then happened a totally unexpected thing. As the canoe struck, a girl who had been lying at the bottom raised herself suddenly, and stared at the water outside, one hand clutching the gunwale. A second later the canoe drifted against another rock and suddenly tilted, throwing the girl into the broken water.

By this time, taken by surprise though he was, Stane was on his feet, and running down the bank. He did not stop to launch his canoe but just as he was flung himself into the water, and started to swim across the river, drifting a little with the current, striving to reach a point where he could intercept the girl as she drifted down. It was no light task he had set himself, for the current was strong, and carried him further than he intended to go, but he was in front of the piece of human flotsam which the river was claiming for its prey, and as it came nearer he stretched a hand and grasped at it. He caught a handful of chestnut hair that floated like long weed in the river's side, and the next moment turned the girl over on her back. She was unconscious, but as he glimpsed at her face, his heart leaped, for it was the face of that fair English girl of whom but a few minutes before he had been dreaming.

He looked for something else to hold by, and finding nothing, twisted the long strand of hair he had gripped into a rope, and held it with his teeth. Then he glanced round. The current had carried him further than he had realized, and now quickened for its rush between the rocky rapids, so that there was some danger of being caught and swept through. As he realized that, he began to exert all his strength, striking across the current for the nearest bank, which was the one furthest from his camp.

A hundred yards down-stream a huge tree, by some collapse of the bank, had been flung from the position where it had grown for perhaps a hundred years, and now lay with its crown and three-quarters of its trunk in the river. Its roots, heavily laden with earth, still clung to the bank and fought with the river for its prey.

In a moment, as it seemed, they had reached it, and now holding the girl's hair firmly in one hand, with the other he clutched at one of the branches. He caught it, and the next moment was unexpectedly ducked overhead in the icy water. He came up gasping, and then upon the voyager's nomenclature is known as a "sweeper." Still held by its roots it bobbed up and down with the current, and the extra strain of his weight and the girl's had sunk it deeper in the water. It still moved up and down, and he had not finished spluttering when a new danger asserted itself. The snarl of the current under the tree was tremendous.

In a second, as it seemed, the tree leaped like a horse and the water swept him and the girl under the trunk. Scarcely were they under when his free arm shot out and flung itself round a fresh bough which floated level with the water. Immediately the bough bobbed under, but he was prepared for that, and after a brief rest, he set the girl's hair between his teeth once more and with both hands free began to work from bough to bough. One that he clutched gave an ominous crack. It began to sag in a dangerous way, and at the fork where it joined a larger branch a white slit appeared and began to grow wider. He watched it growing, his eyes quite steady, his mind alert for the emergency that it seemed must arrive, but the branch held for the space of time that he needed it; and it was with heartfelt relief that he grasped a larger bough, which the next moment touched bottom with his feet.

At that he shifted his hold on the girl, towing her by a portion of her dress, and two minutes later, lifted her beyond the water-line on the high shelving bank. The next moment he had her in his arms and was scrambling up the bank. Gasping he stood looking at her until he had recovered his breath, the girl unconscious of his gaze; then when he felt equal to the task, he plunged again into the river and swam to his own camp.

A few minutes later he returned in his canoe, carrying with him a field waterbottle filled with medicinal brandy.

The girl lay as he had left her, and his first action was to pour a few drops of brandy between her parted lips, and that done he waited, chafing her hands. A minute later the long-lashed eyelids fluttered and opened, and the gray eyes looked wildly around without seeing him, then closed again and a long sigh came from her as she lapsed into unconsciousness anew. At that he wasted no more time. Lifting her, he carried her down to the canoe, and paddling across the river, bore her up to his own camp, and laid her down where the heat of the fire would reach her, then he administered further brandy and once more waited.

Again the eyelids fluttered, and opened, and the girl looked round with wild, uncomprehending gaze, then her eyes grew steady, and a moment later fixed themselves upon Stane. He waited, saw wonder light them, then in a voice that shook, the girl asked: "How did I—come here?"

"That you know best yourself," answered the young man cheerfully. "I fished you out of the river, that is all I know." The girl made as if to reply; but Stane prevented her.

"No, don't try to talk for a little while. Wait! Take a little more of this brandy."

She lifted herself into a sitting posture, and he thoughtfully rolled a small sack of beans to support her back, then she looked at him with a quick questioning gaze. "I have seen you before, have I not? You are the man who was at Fort Malsum, aren't you—the man whom Mr. Ainley used to know?"

"Yes," he answered with a sudden bitterness, "I am the man whom Ainley used to know. My name is Hubert Stane, and I am a discharged convict, as I daresay he told you."

"You fished me out," she said, her eyes on the rocks across the river. "Was it there the canoe overturned?"

"Yes," he answered, "you struck the rocks."

"Then you swam for me?" persisted the girl.

"Had to," he answered, carelessly. "Couldn't let you drown before my eyes—even if I am a convict!"

"Tell me where you got me? I remember nothing about it."

He looked down the river. "As near as I can tell you, it was by that clump of firs there; though I was not able to land for quite a long distance beyond. You were unconscious, and I carried you along the opposite bank, then swam across for my canoe and ferried you over. There you have the whole story." He broke off sharply, then before she could offer comment he spoke again:

"I think it would be as well if you could have a change of clothes. It is not cold, but to let those you

Limited Senate for California, Urged

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—Action to prevent the domination of both houses of the state legislature by the great centers of population, to the detriment of the vast agricultural districts of the state of California, was decided upon by the board of directors of the California Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Higard hall on the campus in Berkeley.

The federation decided to submit to the voters of the state at the next general election an amendment to the constitution restricting or limiting the representation in one house, the senate, so that no county could have more than five senators, although retaining representation on the basis of population in the assembly.

ELINOR GLYN IS BOOSTER FOR THIS PAPER

Woman Author Writes to Young Writers, Giving
Literary Advice

Elinor Glyn, the highest paid woman writer in American newspaper circles this week has written a special article to encourage the Junior Register writers. In it she makes some points which might well be taken to heart by the grown-up writer people as well as the high school students. Madame Glyn's article follows:

By ELINOR GLYN
I am delighted that you feel that the little advice I could give you would be of help. The world's progress is advancing so rapidly that I feel that all of you will become much cleverer writers than anyone of my generation, especially you in America, because you have every kind of advantage ahead of the Europeans. I cannot personally see why girl reporters should not be the equals of male reporters.

And now here are some little bits of advice, which I hope the very youngest of you will take to heart, so as to benefit by them.

Train Observations.
The first lesson to teach you how to write, is to train your observation from the moment you get up in the morning until you go to bed at night. Let what you see register on your brain. When you go for a walk, notice the shapes and meanings of things—get into the habit of registering details concerning people. If you will continue this for two or three years your eye will instantly see all the highlights which form an interesting thread in writing.

To make what I mean quite clear to you I will tell you something about myself. When I was a child I had a very pronounced gift for drawing caricatures, but as naturally no one would ever sit for a caricature! I used to take in people's every peculiarity with a mere glance of the eye, and then from memory I drew them afterwards. Unconsciously, this was the finest training for the attainment of my present power of delineation of character. So I want you to train your eyes as mine are trained, so that in a cursory glance they can take in the colors of the hair, eyes, complexion, and of every point in the personality they are looking at.

Use Well Chosen Words.
The second bit of advice is to use the fewest and most well chosen words to describe things; and the third is, never to digress from your theme for the mere pleasure of expressing your personal views.

No matter what the talent for writing may be, a good education and a knowledge of correct grammar are essential.

I wish you all luck and all the success which you deserve.

"We Build Ladder By Which Climb" Senior Class Motto

By FLORENCE BOOSEY
TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—"We build the ladder by which we climb," is the motto selected by a large majority vote of the Senior class. Though it is not original, it has stood the test of time. It was selected from among such well chosen mottoes as: "Impossible is no American," "Who does not advance falls behind," and "He conquers who conquers himself."

If the class but lives up to the thought suggested in its motto it will go far in this world; for if an individual builds his foundations clean and firm there is no limit to the heights to which he may rise.

"We build the ladder by which we climb."

TUSTIN SERPENTINE INVADES CITY AREA

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—Winding, writhing, down the boulevard into the heart of Tustin went the Tustin Union High School serpent, yelling its cry of war on the afternoon of November 7.

On arriving in Tustin the serpent coiled itself into a huge ring and with the voice of a fog horn rolled from its many-headed body yell after yell. Between intervals, a weird noise was heard from one of the buses. Every window was bulging with it. In fact it was the Tustin high school band, doing its best to blow the kinks out of the horns. The serpent quieted down after a brief spell and the city was left in peace.

Spanish Club Hears Santa Ana Teacher

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—The Spanish club met last Friday night, November 2, at Garden Grove high school. Several new members were voted in and are to be invited next meeting.

After the business meeting the club enjoyed a very interesting speech given by Miss Frothingham of Santa Ana high school, who has recently returned from Mexico. She came brightly dressed in Spanish costume and brought with her many articles that she purchased in the markets of Mexico such as pottery, baskets, toys made by Indians, and different articles of clothing which she displayed to the club.

Another number on the program was the Spanish play "Uno de Ellos Debe Casarse" given by several members of the club. The games played were "Pobre Gaitito" and "Animales, Legumbres y Minerales" and the dance, "Virginia Reel."

Refreshments of sandwiches and chocolate were served and the meeting then broke up.

REGISTER MEN PRESS MEETING MAKE TALKS AT SCHOOL VERY HELPFUL TO STUDENTS

BY DOROTHY ROGERS

HUNTINGTON BEACH UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—Were the students interested in what was being said in assembly at Huntington Beach high school Monday, November 5?

Indeed they were. Every eye was on the characters on the stage, Paul Vessman and Merle Husson, members of the staff of The Santa Ana Register. Mr. Vessman, a police reporter and his duties. His main point was that a reporter must use facts and nothing but facts.

He also declared, "if you think a reporter has certain hours to work and an easy time while he is working, you are mistaken. A reporter works at any time where there is work for him to do."

"If you want to get rich, don't take up the work of a reporter," Mr. Husson gave an interesting talk on the "Junior Register."

Grove English Club Has Monthly Meeting

Alora Owen gave an interesting account of her summer trip from Boston to California.

A saxophone solo by Norma Larson accompanied by Frances Dungan.

After the program refreshments were served and games played.

Pays for Education by Peddling Liquor

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 14.—David White, 24, student of Denver university, was arrested here recently together with 20 gallons of moonshine liquor and 20 gallons of mash. White told police he was working his way through school by bootlegging. He said that within a few days he would have had enough money saved up to finish his education and planned on quitting his distasteful business when sold out of the stock with which he was arrested.

NEW ADJUTANT GENERAL

SARAFENTON, Nov. 14.—Adjutant of Colonel R. E. Mitchell, point of San Francisco as adjutant general of California to succeed J. J. Borree, resigned, has been announced by Governor Friend Williams Richardson.

BY MARY DUNSTAN

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—Live, worth while, and well attended was the semi-annual convention of the Southern California High School Press association held at Huntington Park, Friday, November 9. After enrolling, the delegates assembled in the auditorium where the Huntington Park high school orchestra played several selections. While being entertained by the orchestra, one's eye took in the details of the recently finished auditorium with its large stage very tastefully decorated by the art department.

The blue and gray curtains certainly made the stage one of the most attractive in the country and the ferns and flowers, arranged by a true artist's eye, added to the effect.

John T. Watts, editor of the Huntington Park High School Bulletin, introduced the principal of the high school, T. A. Russell, who gave a most cordial welcome to the delegates.

Discusses Problems.

Problems in high school journalism were discussed by Long Beach, San Fernando, Franklin, San Pedro, Los Angeles, and Orange high schools taking the lead, after which a general discussion followed.

T. E. Stephenson, managing editor of the Santa Ana Register, then spoke on the technical points of writing for a newspaper. His speech proved the most instructive of those delivered that day.

An intermission of ten minutes followed when the students did as they pleased and the faculty advisers adjourned to adopt a constitution for a journalism teachers' association.

Harry A. Williams of the sporting section of the Los Angeles Times gave a very interesting and amusing talk on his experience as a sports writer and his visit to France and Belgium during the war.

Luncheon Makes Hit.

The morning session being ended, the delegates made their way to the school cafeteria where a delicious luncheon was served by girls in white and green, under the supervision of the home economics department.

Then followed the afternoon session opened by the Huntington Park Union High School Girls' Glee club, who rendered three selections.

Mr. Reuben Borough of the Los Angeles Record, delivered a speech on "What the Libera Press Needs."

This was followed by a business meeting.

The four Tustin delegates returned home with the feeling that they were well repaid for the long distance they had had to travel in order to attend.

"HOME BEAUTIFUL" IS HEARD BY GROVE STUDENTS

BY NORMA LARSON

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Nov. 14.—The assembly of the Garden Grove high school held Tuesday was one of the most interesting held this year. Mrs. Capp, representing the drapery department of Barker Brothers of Los Angeles, spoke on the following subject: "The home should be harmonious." The home is the resting place, especially for the father and husband; Peace of mind comes from harmonious rooms; the home is the place where the child is reared. This latter reason is the most important because there must be life and brightness in the rooms. Still, the home must not be decorated entirely in bright colors as the child is inclined to become nervous and disagreeable. Red, for instance, must be used sparingly, for it arouses activity. She told the students of a few incidents where families have broken, due largely to the color red used in the home.

Mrs. Capp also gave an interesting account of the history of furniture. Chippendale designed highly carved furniture. Hepplewhite, in his designing, used the English motif. He was the first person to use the shield for the back of a chair. The Adam brothers received their inspiration from different designs in ancient cities. They were lovers of the urn pattern and they also used the blue bells very much in their designs. The Williams and Mary furniture is of very simple design and built very strong. Queen Anne was the first person to design the back of a chair to the spinal column. The legs of the chairs that she designed were never straight. She used the shell pattern most extensively.

Mrs. Capp closed her talk with a beautiful little poem of her own composition entitled, "Home."

Noted Savants Resign From Vigilance Assn.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Dr. Rufus Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, and Dr. R. A. Millikan, president of the California Institute of Technology, said today they will ask the National Vigilance association to withdraw their names from membership in that organization.

They said they understood the order is to be used in attempting to stamp out other organizations and, if so, they did not want to belong.

Both charges were that Coote had embezzled sums aggregating more than $20,000. Bond of $3,000 was set in each case.

The indictments allege that Coote on May 14, 1923, embezzled from the City National Bank of Long Beach, and the Pacific Southwest Savings Bank, of Los Angeles, 4,400 shares of Eastern Mining company stock, worth $20,000.

Embezzlement of two promissory notes valued at $13,000, is also included in the charges.

Coote's bond firm, with branches in many Pacific coast cities, recently failed, and is said to have carried the savings of many investors with it.

WILL YOU MAKE THE GRADE?
..(Entered in the Competition for the T. E. Stephenson Cup for the Best Junior Register Editorial.)

The nation of tomorrow is looking for the men who have made the grade. It is looking for the men who can "Carry a Message to Garcia." It is not an easy grade to make, not even a small one. But is it not worth the trouble? Is one not repaid for everything that they put into life? We hear the saying, "An eye for an eye." And it is so, for what we give we shall receive.

We may say that there is one stem to life and out of it either grows those things called laziness or industry, according to what one makes it.

Laziness, to be defined, is a man who sets about with no aim in life. Take the rich young fellow, for instance. Suppose his father has made plenty of money and the boy does not have to work. He finds nothing to keep himself busy; he plays pool and soon becomes a no-account. Laziness leads this boy to an ill-mannered life and often into the criminal world.

Industry is the boy who must work for a living. His parents are poor; he sees their need and works in his spare time and reads when he gets a chance; gaining knowledge to the best of his ability. After he has the government service, he goes into the ranks, and the world knows him.

Which shall it be—laziness or industry? Will you make the grade of success and industry, or will you stay at the bottom with laziness?

You can be successful, but your success depends on you and not on someone to do it for you.

Irma Young,
Anaheim Union High School.

PARADE PATRIOTISM
Hats off! The flag is passing by! So says the poem "The Flag." And how many know enough to remove their hats when the flag goes by? Loyalty to the flag is part of loyalty and honor to the government.

How well the patriotism of the men was shown up at the Armistice Day parade at Orange, Monday, November 12! It was appalling to see the men remain with their hats on as our flag was borne along the streets. Surely they knew that they should remove their hats when the flag was passed by an officer went by and told them to take off their hats and even then many heads remained uncovered. It seems a disgrace to the nation for these men to act as they did.

Tustin Union High School.

THE VALUE OF GOOD SPEECH
Entered in the Competition for the T. E. Stephenson Cup for the Best Junior Register Editorial.)

Good speech is of great importance no matter what field we may choose for our life work. The best speaking people are the people who are doing the world's work today. We high school students will be doing the world's work tomorrow and without a good command of the English language we are almost certain to make a failure of the task.

When applying for a position our speech usually makes or breaks our chances. The person who does not use slang will make a great many more friends than the person who uses slang will make.

Friends whose influence upon them will not better their work. We can not expect to get ahead if our associates are not of the right class. We are judged by the company we keep, so, if we do not associate with good English-speaking people, we will be cast aside by those we meet.

The schools of today are doing their best to teach the students the English language, and a week out of each school year has been set aside during which time the use of good speech is stressed.

Let us strive in our everyday life to use good English and we certainly will never regret that we put forth the effort.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 14.—Choking sounds and thumps as of blows heard over the telephone here brought out the police reserves.

Breaking into the Walter Stapleton building the police found that a sporting horse, making a fake sale of Webster's New International Dictionary Reference and Atlas. The C. C. Merriam company publishes these books and according to the letter to City Marshal Rogers, Elliot has never been employed by the company. The letter states that the man is a parolee convicted from the Oregon state penitentiary.

According to police, the man offers these two books for the sum of $15 and insists that this sum be paid in advance. The purchaser never receives the books. It was declared. Reports have come to the publishing house of the operations of this alleged swindler from all parts of the West and Middle West. It is said that he has operated recently in California and is headed toward Southern California and Orange county.

The man is described as about 40 years old, slightly gray hair and a nutty complexion. He is about 6 feet tall and appears very nervous and restless.

The publishing company is anxious that this man be arrested and his sample case and order blanks be returned to the company.
